

Design choices

For the axes I aimed for a clean and minimalistic look to not take the focus away of the data. With a black letter colour and white background the axes and labels pop out making it easier to read. The dataset is amount rain making blue the perfect colour for the bars. The pop up bar from the tooltip is made black with white lettering to make the user pay attention to it when it hovers over the bars. The source link was made clickable to keep it clean instead of showing the whole URL.